

The North Woods at Night

Literary Reflections on Maine's Largest Forest

WHERE WILDERNESS WHISPERS— MAINE'S NORTH WOODS AT NIGHT

North Woods at Night is a lyrical anthology exploring Maine's iconic forest under the cover of darkness. With each story and poem, readers journey into a world both eerie and enchanting, as 38 writers reflect on the solitude and wonder of the North Woods after sunset. This collection celebrates the nocturnal beauty of a land where shadows deepen, stars dazzle, and the wilderness whispers.

"North Woods at Night brims with wonder and the 'splendid darkness' of Maine's North Woods. From sneaking out to paddle a lake to the sudden appearance of a moose, this collection vividly captures the magic and mystery of the wilderness."

If readers like Upstream by Mary Oliver, The Book of Delights by Ross Gay, or The Carrying by Ada Limón, they will find a kindred exploration of nature's mystery and solitude in North Woods at Night.

"As reverent as a prayer and as delicate as a dream, the poetry and prose in North Woods at Night transport readers to a world of vernal pools and moonglow, towering pines and starshine. In a deep-tree world unpolluted by light, we are invited to witness what truly shimmers."

—Hollie Adams, author of Things You've Inherited from Your Mother
