A SPELLBINDING TALE OF CELTIC MAGIC, FORBIDDEN DREAMS, AND THE RESILIENCE OF THE HUMAN SPIRIT

On the wild coast of 1820s Ireland, 16 year-old Morrigan Lane is unusual in her desire to captain boats to freedom on the seas. Born a seeker in her mystical lands, Morrigan finds herself pulled into a mysterious journey when a haunting vision of the Irish sea god beckons her into his shadowy world. Against the backdrop of Ireland's rugged cliffs and ancient stone circles, she must navigate myth and reality, confronting age-old traditions, family secrets, and the fierce expectations placed upon her as a young woman. Fans of historical fantasy and coming-of-age adventures will be swept away by Morrigan's quest for self-discovery in a world where land and sea, myth and truth, are deeply intertwined.

"Tears, sighs, fabulous!"

—Geraldyn White Dreyfous, Academy Award-winning film producer

"Atmospheric, subtle, and captivating"

—Foreword Reviews, Clarion

"In this fantasy novel, Comeau uses the Irish setting ... and tales of the Otherworld and Tuatha dé Danann to craft an ethereal, fablelike narrative. Morrigan, ... friends, family, and fellow villagers, come alive ... fitting perfectly into the picturesque village ... Morrigan's frustration with the imposed limits on her gender adds a fascinating dimension to the spooky tale.."

—Kirkus Reviews

Fans of Outlander's Claire Fraser and The Frozen River's Martha Ballard will enjoy Comeau's Morrigan Lane, who is fiercely devoted to discovering her healing gifts while those in power call them "dangerous."

Jennifer Elwell Comeau was raised on the songs and stories of her indomitable Irish ancestors. This novel honors their legacy. Author of The Inside of ME, a children's book, and creator/songwriter of two albums of original music, she works globally on restoring nature-human interconnection. Jen lives in Kennebunkport, Maine.
