Wind

WHAT IF A TREE ASKED YOU TO LISTEN, AND YOU DID?

Sixth-grader Katie Noriega is staring out the classroom window when the old oak outside asks her for help. She listens, and the whole class laughs. At home, her parents can't stop fighting. Then an earthquake splits the ground, and Katie falls into another world, where she meets Za, a boastful alien who is just as lost as she is. Guided by Dania, a mysterious forest woman, the two race to find the Winged Ones before the third moon wanes, while the Poison One feeds on every doubt Katie has. Wind is a fantasy adventure about friendship, courage, and how healing ourselves helps heal the Earth.

If readers like Madeleine L'Engle's A Wrinkle in Time or Katherine Applegate's Wishtree, they'll be enchanted by Wind. Like these beloved tales, Wind combines magical adventure with deep emotional resonance and a connection to nature.

Ellen Dee Davidson is an author of children's books, including Princess Justina Albertina and Zoe, the Misfit. Her book Stolen Voices has been translated into multiple languages. Ellen is inspired by nature, especially the redwood forests near her home in Northern California. She also teaches and guides forest bathing experiences.
